

Market Research Report Subscription Package

BCC offers small to large businesses, government and academia our Market Research Report Subscription service—a cost-effective solution for those in need of on-going market research data. Each subscription is customized to your organization's size, budget, and business intelligence needs and offers an affordable alternative to individual report purchases. Clients can access BCC's complete report catalog, select reports across multiple categories, or purchase reports in just one category in their subscription.

Report Subscription Benefits:

- Immediate, enterprise-wide access to new reports upon publication; reports are published in electronic format for retrieval right from your desktop
- Access to more than 100 reports published annually covering 19 technical industries; an extensive library archive of more than 2000 reports
- Analysts are available to answer data-specific questions
- A dedicated account manager to work with you throughout the life of the subscription
- Ability to suggest new coverage areas

Every BCC report is written by an expert analyst and measures the value of a given market and all relevant segments of that market over a 5-year forecast period. Ground-breaking science and technology developments and industry trends are evaluated in terms of how they will influence the area of study and the opportunities and challenges they will create for market players.

Use A BCC Report Subscription To:

Develop marketing and business plans to introduce a new product, enter a new market, evaluate a competitive marketplace, or make any other key decisions affecting the ability to compete successfully.
